Updated Dec. 23, 2019

On December 16th, SIED hosted an event, "Let's make a New Year's Card!" at the International Community Lounge on Imadegawa Campus. In this event, participants experienced writing "Nengajo", a Japanese style New Year's card, while interacting one another.

Firstly, SIED staff explained Japanese New Year's culture including Nengajo. Then, participants made their own New Year's Card. Participants were excited to learn how to make the card and how people spend New Year's holidays in each country. They seemed to enjoy this event so much! The event reminded some local students of their childhood, on the other hand, some international students said "I have never made the New Year's card!"

Lastly, participants posted the card into a paper mailbox that was made by SIED staff. We hope that the New Year's cards arrive safely, and all the participants have great New Year holidays!!

SIED will host a lot of events in the next semester as well! Don't miss it!
